14. Which of the underlined parts is grammatically incorrect?¹⁴

This was something I thought I might be able to help you with. I always pictured us sitting down together and ① having a talk, mother to daughter. You'd take your earphones out, I'd turn off the TV. Your father would be out at work and so we'd have the whole afternoon to ourselves. In this talk, I would begin by telling you, as straightforwardly as I could, the story of my own adolescence. My intention would be not to shock or embarrass you, but ② to try and show you we're not all that different, you and I. I do know ③ that it's like to be your age: I was there once, after all. I lived through it. And ④ hearing the mistakes I made, you might learn from them and not have to repeat them. You could be spared my scars, in other words, ⑤ so that the life you grow up in might be better than the one I had. Today, I thought, would be a good time for us to have this talk, on your fifteenth birthday.
